BTH seminar on Research data 30th of May

Everybody is talking about research data these days - about funders policies, government requirements and ownership. Who owns your research data? What is a permanent file format? What is and will be the requirements concerning documentation, preservation and sharing now and in the future? These are questions this free seminar will try to answer. The seminar will be given in Swedish in the BTH library seminar room. Please sign your name in the survey if you intend to participate (non committal):

About the newsletter

This newsletter cover information about scientific publishing with focus on Open access and BTH issues.

It will also give some information about research funding, not on specific calls but regarding more general issues in connection to funding of research projects.

The Library and Grants Office at BTH cooperates in the production of the Newsletter.
